

Affiliative (Interpersonal) and Social Exchange: The Role in Trauma Recovery

Andrei Novac, MD, FAPA

Clinical Professor of Psychiatry

Director Traumatic Stress Program

University of California, Irvine

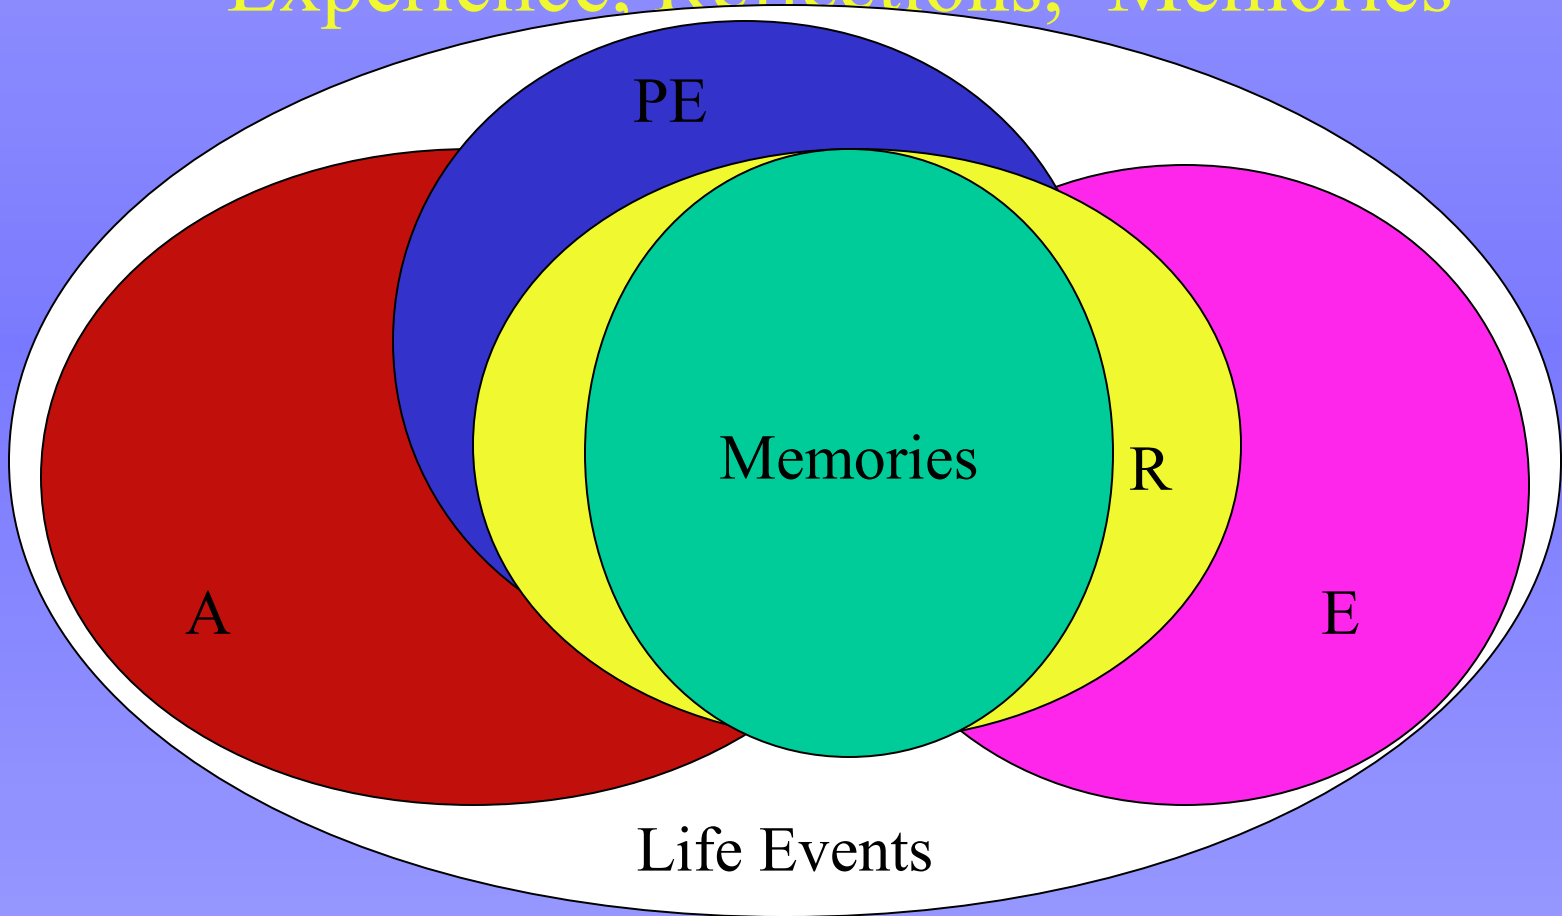

Modules of Presentation

Module I: Defining Trauma Recovery

Module II: Curative Function of Empathy and ToM in Social and Cultural Interaction

Module III: The Neural Substrate of Trauma
Recovery

Events, Emotions, Actions, Prior Experience, Reflections, Memories

Social Affiliation

(Components)

- A. Interpersonal 1:1, familial, social (small, large - group dynamics)
- B. Intersubjectivity
- C. Trigger elaborate neuroendocrine mechanisms
- D. Individual evolutionary processes

Best known:

- Mentalization

- Empathy

- Attachment

- Play

- Social Smile/Courting...

For additional information regarding this subject, please contact Dr. Novac at anovacmd@gmail.com